Miss A. Fox

1st Oct 1877 P. Asaph

My dear Mr. Garrison, 271
For your kindness in sending me your
latest photograph
from Liverpool
demands my best thanks. It has added to the many obligations which I am already indebted to you for,
and will always
be reckoned by me
among the most precious of my possession.

It shows you as you were in that delightful time when you & Mr. F. Garrison honoured our house with your presence, a time we shall always look back to, as a sacred one in our lives.

After you left us we watched the sky almost every hour, & were glad to see that the weather improved & would allow

visions
you to see something
of our beautiful Wales.
Mary Estlin came back to Mr. Asaph & told about your journey to the Mermaid Bridges, & then wrote
to us of the meeting at Mrs. Gublee's, in whom you met with
so kind a spirit.
Mary Estlin has sent us papers from Geneva, which show
that 400 persons have attended the Congress

There & that many interesting speeches
have been made,
but we do not yet
know the general
result of the Conference.
However we feel sure
it will have been such as Mrs Butler
& the other friends
of humanity will approve.

Soon after your
both your departure from Liverpool, your old disciple & own

acquaintance of
 country. He seems to be pursuing a worthy career, &
 I hope, has been completely successful
 in his mission in favor of perfect
 quality among the good Templars.

Dr. W. B. Carpenter
 is bringing out a series of lectures,
 in Fraser's Magazine
 on various objects

of popular enthusiasm
including spiritualism.
The lectures are very similar to the work on Mental Physiology
which we were here
speaking of, only
devoid of much of the accompanying
and explanatory science. The Misses Lewis, the friends
who generally reside
with us, have a brother in-law, a photographic artist, who has represented his little girl, as sitting in

The foreground of a
view of N. Asaph. The
has never been in this City, 1800 were
there any flowers
in the view which he took of it. This circumstance caused Miss Lewis not to be much struck by the Spiritualistic Photographs, & the ~~very~~ unnatural
movement of the arms & position of the hands of the figures, prevented our thinking them
genuine copies from

life. Mr. & Mrs. Wicksteed have left us for their new home at Froyston, south of London. We have not yet had time to visit them.
So much as we expect to do. We hope to have frequent visits from them.

With the united
kindest regards of all our household to yours & your son
I remain, dear Mr. Garrison, your devoted friend
Harriet Tupton.
